Tax disputes: 'Faceless' assessment key to solve problem'

In these cases, additional tax demands were 'large' only in around 4,000 or 8% of the cases, against 60% during the earlier system that involved personal interface and resultant element of subjectivity, he noted.

The recent Budget extended the new system to the appeals before the income tax appellate tribunals. The amount involved in tax disputes were over ₹1.1 lakh crore in FY19 end, as per official data, up 23% over the year ago level; the Centre's gross tax receipts in FY19 was ₹20.8 lakh crore.

As many as 1.25 lakh cases, a quarter of all direct disputes, have opted for Vivad se Vishwas scheme, enabling settlement of ₹97,000 crore in tax demands, the government has recently stated. Although the expectations regarding the scheme was much higher — the government had originally set a target to collect ₹2 lakh crore by the end of March 2020, but the Covid-19 pandemic upset the calculations — the government still flags the scheme as a success, citing that a 1998 scheme could only mop up ₹739 crore with resolution of a few thousand disputes and another one in 2016 managed to resolve just 8,600 cases involving a tax demand of ₹631 crore.

Pandey said India's equalisation levy or the so-called 'Google tax' that has been questioned by the US was in sync with the principles on which an OECD framework was being worked out. He indicated that a rollback of this impost was unlikely anytime soon. "Several countries (including some in Europe) have already started taxing digital services," he added.

Pandey said given that the world is getting increasingly more digitalised and companies are generating revenue out of transactions undertaken abroad, it's only fair that countries get to tax such transactions that originate from their territories. Asked if the Budget for FY22 further widened the scope of the levy, Pandey said it was just a clarification. The consideration received or receivable for e-commerce supply services won't include considerations that are already taxable as royalty or fees for technical services under the income-tax Act.

The levy is a sort of digital tax on non-resident e-tailers at 2% on the revenue they generate in India from e-commerce supply services. It was introduced in the Finance Act 2020 (effective from April 1, 2020) by widening the scope of an existing equalisation levy to include e-commerce players and intermediaries. Earlier, the equalisation levy (at 6%) was rolled out in 2016 and slapped on the revenues generated on B2B digital advertisements and allied services of the resident service provider. Last year's change was brought in to nullify the advantage of foreign-commerce firms sans a physical presence in India over domestic competitors.

While many analysts have expressed doubts about the practicality of the Centre's plan, as reflected in the Budget, to spend 1.6% of GDP in Q4 (which requires more than doubling of the expenditure in Q4 from the year-ago level, compared with 8% y-o-y growth in April-December), the finance secretary said: "Unlike in the first quarter when the lockdown led to a severe compression of spending and the 'difficult situation' persisted in second and even the third quarter, in the fourth quarter, there would be big jump in spending. Traditionally also, in the last quarter, the expenditures are higher."

In a recent interview to FE, expenditure secretary TV Somanathan said the "appetite of the starving ministries" and some 'lumpy items' would make the target achievable. "Past expenditure trends can't predict Q4 FY21 spend. A better indicator will be the sharp pick-up in November (48%) and December (29%). And there are lumpy items like clearance of fertilizer subsidy arrears and release of dues to FCI (shifting below-the-line food subsidy to the Budget), which will all happen in Q4, taking us close to the revised estimate (for FY21)," Somanathan said.

Biden warns China will 'eat our lunch'

"They're investing billions of dollars dealing with a whole range of issues that relate to transportation, the environment and a whole range of other things. We just have to step up."

The White House said Biden emphasised to Xi it was a US priority to preserve a free and open Indo-Pacific, a region where the United States and China are major strategic rivals.

He also voiced "fundamental" concerns about Beijing's "coercive and unfair" trade practices, as well as about human rights issues, including China's crackdown in Hong Kong and treatment of Muslims in Xinjiang, and its increasingly assertive actions in Asia, including toward Taiwan.

White House spokeswoman Jen Psaki said Biden also expressed concern about China's lack of transparency over the coronavirus.

All the rights issues Biden mentioned were ones Beijing has explicitly told his administration it should stay out of.

Xi told Biden confrontation would be a "disaster" and the two sides should re-establish the means to avoid misjudgments, China's foreign ministry said.

The Biden administration has signaled it will maintain pressure on Beijing, and has endorsed a Trump administration determination that China has committed genocide in Xinjiang. —REUTERS

Life without Google: Australia is now facing the unthinkable

"THE PROSPECT OF Google search disappearing is frightening at best," Smith said. "It's quite reflexive of me to Google something, anything, that I'm even mildly not sure of"

Searching for 'best beach Sydney' shows the variance in performance among Google's competitors. DuckDuckGo's first result was an ad for a hotel more than 1,000 km away in Queensland, with Sydney beach reviews listed below a second ad link Search Encrypt, which touts its data-protection capability, said: "It looks like there aren't any great matches." Bing's initial suggestion was Bondi Beach Post Office. Only Google returned a real beach, Bondi, first up.

The world-first legislation will be considered by Australia's parliament from the week starting February 15 after a key senate committee recommended on Friday that the Bill be passed.

"The government expects all parties to continue to work constructively towards reaching commercial agreements," Treasurer Josh Frydenberg said in a statement welcoming the senate report.

The government says the local media industry -- including Rupert Murdoch's News Corp and Sydney Morning Herald-publisher Nine Entertainment -- has been bled of advertising revenue by the tech giants and should be paid fairly for content.

Google argues it drives traffic to their websites, and that being forced to pay to display snippets of news breaks the principle of an open Internet. It also opposes the law's final-offer arbitration model that determines how much it should pay publishers.

Facebook has said it may stop Australians from sharing news on its platform if the law is enacted, an unprecedented step.
